Semarak International Research Innovation Symposium IV

Semarak International Research Innovation Symposium IV (SIRIS IV), hosted by Semarak Ilmu Sdn. Bhd., on 29-30 April 2025. This exciting event will bring together scholars, researchers, and professionals from around the world to share their latest research through submitted manuscripts. The symposium offers a unique platform for innovative ideas, fostering intellectual exchange, and building valuable connections with experts from diverse academic fields. On the announcement day, we will also feature 7 excellent keynote speakers from around the globe, offering expert insights. Whether you're submitting your work or exploring new perspectives, SIRIS IV provides an invaluable opportunity to engage with the global academic community

This symposium provides an opportunity to present groundbreaking research, foster dynamic discussions, and promote collaborative learning in areas such as engineering, applied sciences, technology, social sciences, and natural sciences. With a broad range of topics, including artificial intelligence, biomedical advancements, nanotechnology, sustainable development, education innovation, and business and management, SIRIS IV aims to highlight the latest trends, insights, and advancements that push the boundaries of human understanding. All submitted research articles will undergo a thorough review process and, upon acceptance, will be published in specialized international academic journals (non-Scopus indexed) and Proceedings aligned with the specific research areas. By offering a platform for the exchange of ideas, fresh perspectives, and innovative solutions, the event aspires to inspire and empower participants to drive meaningful progress in their respective fields and contribute to a brighter, more sustainable future.
